"A correspondent asks in a recent issue of your paper concerning the final resting place of General Turner Ashby. He was laid to rest at first, as Miss Mary Johnston says in The Long Roll, in the cemetery of the University of Virginia. there to-day, under a single stone sabre-carved, he sleeps with his gallant brother, Richard.

"Prof. R. L. Dabney, in his Life and Campaigns of General Stonewall Jackson," edition of 1866, states that the friends of General Ashby, selected the graveyard of the State University as his burial place, and that University as his burial place, and that thither his body was conveyed with martial pomp, and burled while the thunders of the distant battle at Port Republic tolled a fitting knell for the great soldier.

"More than once, when a boy, did I hear my father, who now lives in your city, speak of the reinterment of General Ashby. And for many a year it was my pleasure to go with him, my mother, brother and sister, from Berryville each year, when the roses and lilles were a-bloom, to take part in the memorial exercises held in the Confederate cemetery at Winchester. Upon one of my last visits there, I rocall standing with my mother at the grave of the Ashbys, while gentle Southern matrons laid sweet flowers of the Valley upon their tomb." News of South Richmond.

Hearing Set for Monday.

It has been decided by the Southside police to hold the preliminary hearing of Lora Coleman, colored, charged with being responsible for the death of her mother, Nannie Richmond, next Monday morning. The woman will be arraigned before Justice H. A. Maurice in Police Court, Part II. If the evidence proves strong she will probably be sent on to the grand jury in Hustings Court, Part II., which convenes for the new term that day.

UNIQUE PETITION FILED.

Wife and Daughter Seek to Force Merchant in Bankruptey.

Norfolk, Va., February 1t.—Not since the hankruptey law went into effect, until yesterday, has there been filed in the United States Court here an involuntary petition in which a man's wife and daughter are the principal creditors, invoking the add of the bankruptey act to protect their interests.

So far as is known, there has never been a proceeding of this kind in which the allegation that the debtor, after committing an act in bankruptey, has absconded.

These features, however, appear in a petition just entered against R. J. Lawson, of Portsmouth, a dealer in meats, whose place of business was in Effingham Street between High and King Streets, and whose residence was opposite his store.

Jennie Lawson, the alleged debtor's wife, May Lawson, his daughter, and C. L. Hanbury are the creditors who filed the petition, through Eason a Planson, attorneys, asking that Lawson & addinged a bankrupt. The former's claim is for $1,000 money loaned, and interest thereon. Miss Lawson claims as wages due $5.50, while Mr. Hanburys claim is a rental account on five-year lease at $240 a year.

The petitioners allege that Lawson recently made assignment of a large pertion of his chattels to one Felton, and has absconded. rico, and district aforesaid—Bankrupt:

Notice is hereby given that on the Sth day of February, A. D. 1913, the said JOHN D. Mountain Territory Especially Sultable for Breeding Horses.

Monterey, Va., February H.—The government is making a thorough investigation of the border counties with a view to the systematic and extensive breeding of horses suitable for cavalry and artillery service. Mr. Reese, in charge of the central horse-breeding diatrict, has Just paid a visit to Highland, and nearly all the horsemen interviewed express themselves pleased with the plans and proposition. It is claimed that mountain territory is especially desirable; that the sort of life and treatment to which the meuntain horse is accustomed tend to make them more hardy and develop the qualities wanted as army remounts.
